INTRODUCTION

This document defines the responsibilities and obligations of professional self-discipline the International Institute for Building-Biology® & Ecology (IBE) requests of our students and alumni. Its purpose is to demonstrate to the public that IBE students and graduates maintain the highest levels of ethical behavior and professional performance, and expresses the standards of professional conduct to clients, colleagues, members of allied trades, and the general public that all can expect of IBE-trained professionals

By enrolling in IBE courses, you are agreeing to fully comply with the following Code.

IBE CODE OF ETHICS

- I will be honest and forthright in advertising/marketing my Building Biology services.
- I will accurately represent my training, certification level, and membership within IBE.
 - Not certified by IBE – no training or authority to inspect homes and/or buildings.
 - Building Biology Practitioners – please see Statement of Limitations on page 4 of the BBP Course Prospectus.
 - Building Biology Environmental Consultants – certified to inspect and mitigate.
 - Electromagnetic Radiation Specialist – certified to inspect and mitigate.
- I will comply with all applicable federal, state and local laws, regulations and licensing requirements.
- I will provide services only after obtaining the necessary certification, bonding and licensing required on a particular project or within a particular jurisdiction.
- I will utilize the services and products of those who possess specialized skills, tools, or trades not possessed by me when circumstances call for work to be done that I am unable and/or unqualified to perform.
- I will stay abreast of new developments in technology, tools of the trade, building codes, industry standards and guidelines, and any other codes or information that directly affects my work.
- I will promptly and courteously address any and all customer or consumer complaints and or inquiries and will fully explain the services, testing procedures and practices I perform, as well as those I recommend.
- I will not use or distribute copyrighted material, including IBE material, without proper authorization. Without prior written approval, I will not teach IBE material or imply that completion of any course I write or teach leads to Building Biology® certification.
- I, the undersigned, agree that as a student and/or alumnus of IBE, I will abide by this IBE Code of Ethics.
